EDUCATION, CAREER AND PROFESSIONAL STATUS

I was born in Newbury, Berkshire, England on 13th October 1943. I married in 1967, and have three children born in 1972 (twins) and 1976. I was divorced in 1989 and remarried in 2000. I am a British Citizen and also a naturalised South African citizen. I attended Carn Brae Preparatory School, Bromley, Kent, UK, from where I won a scholarship to St. John's School, Leatherhead, UK. I started there in 1956. In 1959, I passed 'O' Levels in Latin, Greek, French, History, Maths, Additional Maths, English. In 1961, I passed 'A' levels: Latin (distinction), Greek, Ancient History. I won a Scholarship to Brasenose College, Oxford which I entered in 1962. In 1964 I completed Honour Moderations in Greek & Latin Literature and, in 1966, obtained a BA(Hons) in Psychology and Philosophy. From September 1966 to August 1967 I was a Secondary School Teacher for Kent County Council. From September 1967 to May 1970 I worked as a Secondary School Teacher for the Government of Zambia, at Chalimbana, near Lusaka.

I moved to Grahamstown, South Africa and in 1971 enrolled for a Master's degree in the Department of Psychology, Rhodes University. In 1971, I was a Graduate Assistant, in 1972, a Lecturer(Temporary). In 1973 I completed my Master's in Psychology with a thesis entitled: 'An investigation of the determinants of the spatial characteristics of figure placements'. In 1975, I was appointed Lecturer and in 1978 completed my Ph.D. in Psychology with a thesis entitled, 'A cross-cultural study of interpersonal distance and orientation schemata'. From January to December, I was an intern Clinical Psychologist at St. Francis Hospital, Haywards Heath, in a program run by the University of Surrey, UK. In 1981 I became Senior Lecturer. From July 1984 to June 1985 I was a post-doctoral fellow at the Centre for Cognitive Therapy in the Department of Psychiatry of the University of Pennsylvania, USA. In 1985 I was made a full professor at Rhodes and was Head of Department from 1986-1993. Since 2010 I have been Professor on a part time contract. I have had a small private practice as a clinical psychologist since 1980 and currently have a larger private practice and provide training and supervision in schema therapy, in which I have certification as a therapist and trainer with the International Society of Schema Therapy.

Professional accreditations

Professional Board for Psychology of Health Professions Council of South Africa (Formerly The South African Medical and Dental Council: 1978: Registered in the category 'Research Psychologist'; 1979: Registered in the category 'Clinical Psychologist'.

British Psychological Society: Associate Fellow. Chartered Clinical Psychologist (Statement of equivalence in Clinical Psychology issued December 20,1999).

Academy of Cognitive Therapy (USA): Diplomate and Founding Fellow (since 1999).

International Society for Schema Therapy: Certified as a schema therapist and trainer (since 2009) and as a therapist and trainer in Schema Therapy for Couples (2016). Currently President of the ISST for two years (September 2016-September 2018)..

UNIVERSITY ADMINISTRATIVE AND TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Administration I was heavily involved in administrative aspects of the Psychology Department at Rhodes throughout my career until my retirement at the end of 2009. This included replanning and reorganising of the first year course, which I co-ordinated from 1973 to 1982 and in computerisation of administration. In 1983 I headed a committee which investigated the second and third year practical programs. For some years, I was responsible for the overall format of the Honours course, and, in 1987, I redesigned and co-ordinated the Honours practical program. I was Head of Department from January 1986 to December 1993 and Director of Clinical Psychology Training in 2004-2005. I served on several university committees including: Faculty of Humanities (formerly Arts) 1976-2009. Higher Degrees Committee: 1986-

1993; Academic Skills Advisory Committee: 1986-1992; Ethical Standards Committee: 1987-1990; Board for the Institute of Social and Economic Research: 1987-1991; Library Committee: 1986, 1991, 1992, 1999, 2002-3; Plagiarism committee: 2004-2009.

Undergraduate and Honours teaching I gave undergraduate lecture courses in a wide variety of areas: sensory processes, psychobiology, perception, memory, thinking, creativity, cognition, decision theory, approaches to personality, environmental psychology, cognitive and behavioural approaches to personal change, transpersonal psychology and parapsychology. I implemented practicals on statistics and experimental design, behavioural correlates of personality, experimental social psychology, attention and perception, interpersonal skills and assertiveness analysis and training, meditation as an attention skill, and co-counselling (which is a structured self-awareness and personal growth program). At Honours level, I gave seminar courses on cross-cultural psychology, intelligence, memory, humanistic psychology, transpersonal psychology. I co-ordinated the course on research methodology and taught the section on case study research method. In addition I have taught and co-ordinated the course on the preparation of research proposals. I designed and implemented practical courses on computer programming, experimental design, the use of computer software packages (SPSS and BMDP), case study research, psychotherapy, co-counselling (an intensive structured self-awareness and personal growth program).

Masters teaching Clinical/counselling Psychology: From 1980-2009, I taught a basic course in cognitive-behaviour therapy and provided weekly group supervision of students' cognitive therapy cases as well as some individual supervision. I also taught group therapy from 1997-2002. Research Psychology: I planned and developed this Master's program in 1987 and ran it until 1990. It includes a year of coursework and a year's internship. I offered lectures and seminars on psychometric research methodology and weekly seminars on community psychology. In the practical program I offered a course on item analysis and validation of personality and attitude scales, and on case study research methodology. I offered supervision in the internship program. Transpersonal Psychology/Counselling Psychology: I introduced this Master's program in 1996. It ran successfully but was dropped due to lack of teaching resources for an additional coursework Master's degree. I taught a basic course in counselling skills, one on shamanism and its relationship to western psychology and psychotherapy, and supervised counselling and psychotherapy practical experience.

Leadership in the teaching of research I provided direction in the teaching of research method and the processes involved in guiding the preparation and review of research proposals in three ways.

- From 1997 to 2000, for the Honours course, I co-ordinated the teaching of research methodology and the process of writing research proposals.
- In 1999 I received the Vice-Chancellor's Distinguished Teaching Award, in recognition of the breadth and comprehensiveness of my teaching portfolio and the quality of my teaching at all levels from Undergraduate to Postgraduate seminars and clinical and research supervision.
- From 2000-2008 I was Chair of the Department's Research Projects Review Committee providing firm leadership with respect to standards for research proposals, means of reaching appropriate consensus among committee members of different ideological persuasions, and, constructive communication of the committee's findings to students.
- The booklet I wrote in 1997 entitled Guidelines for writing a research proposal was used by all students writing proposals from Honours level upwards, and provides a basis for common criteria in the evaluation of proposals by staff. I wrote a revised and extended second edition in 2004.

External Examiner Each year between 1985 and 1996 I was external examiner for end of year exams at various universities. This included undergraduate and Honours level exams at University of Cape Town, Durban and Pietermaritzburg campuses of the University of Natal, University of the Witwatersrand and University of Transkei. I was also external examiner for Master's in Clinical Psychology courses at University of Durban Westville, University of Cape Town, University of Port Elizabeth, University of Natal, Pietermaritzburg and University of Stellenbosch. I have been external examiner for 23 Master's and Doctoral theses (See Appendix B).

RESEARCH

The range and history of my research can be seen from the list of my research grants, theses supervised, conference presentations and publications.

Research grants

Human Sciences Research Council:

- 1972, for Master's research on the determinants of the spatial characteristics of figure placements.
- 1976, for PhD research on 'A cross-cultural study of interpersonal schemata'.
- 1983, for an investigation into intergroup relations: 'Black identity in Grahamstown and Ciskei'.
- 1989-1993, for the development of Case study research method for application in South Africa. This has led to an ongoing focus that has given rise to a series of published methodological articles and book chapters as well as to a series of systematic case studies of psychotherapy including several carried by students under my supervision. I am currently one of the editors of a book on systematic cases studies of cases from clinical trials.

National Research Foundation:

- 2005-2009 'The development of contextually appropriate evidence-based practice for the treatment of post-traumatic stress disorder and other sequelae of severely traumatic events.' To initiate this, I edited a special issue of the Journal of Psychology in Africa in 2005 on post-traumatic stress disorder and its treatment in the South African context which included several papers authored or co-authored by me. Subsequently with a series of students, 19 case studies of treatment of PTSD in South Africa have been written in Master's or PhD theses. Some of these have been published or served as the basis for other publications.
- 2010-2014: I received incentive funding as a C-rated scientist.

I also received research grants from Rhodes University in 1981 and 1982, and continuously from 1993 to 2014 towards a series of projects, reflected in my list of publications.

Journal Editorial Board Memberships and Referee Invitations

- I am on the editorial board of The Journal of Psychology in Africa: publishes psychological research on the life of people in Africa, especially Africa South of the Sahara, and of dispersed African populations such as Afro-Americans and Afro-Caribbeans.
- I am on the editorial board of Pragmatic Case Studies in Psychotherapy: An online journal founded in 2005 and based at Rutgers University in New Jersey, U. S. A. It aims to provide an archival database of rigorously written case studies in psychotherapy based on the kinds of research models which I have been using and writing about for several years.
- During the course of my career I have acted as referee for 69 journal articles from a range of journals. For a full list see Appendix B.

Theses supervised

Starting in 1981, I have supervised 7 full Master's theses, 5 Master's theses that were part of a Research

Coursework degree, 27 Master's theses that were part of a Master's degree in Clinical or Counselling Psychology, and 6 PhD theses. For a full list, see Appendix A. I am currently supervising 3 PhD theses.
